

Anti-Slavery Office,

New York, 23 April, 1864.

My Dear Garrison,

73 Do you remember my calling your attention, last year (on the platform in Cheever's church) to the fact that our annual meeting, ^{in the official notice,} was wrongly numbered? I remember doing so, and that you thought me mistaken, and the notice right. But knowing that I was not mistaken, I took care to set the matter right in the record of our proceedings.
You called last year's meeting the 29th—it really was the 30th; and you have fallen into the same error this year in calling the meeting the 30th, when it will be the 31st. The error is quite natural, being an inference from the fact that ~~it~~ the Society was formed in Dec. '33, ~~less~~ only 30 years ago. But you will see, ~~the~~ on reflection, that you are wrong, and that the Society having held its first anniversary in May, 1834, did of course hold its thirtieth ⁱⁿ 1863; and therefore that the anniverⁱⁿsary of 1864 will be the first ~~of~~ the 4th decade, as that of 1834 was the first of the first decade, that of 1844 the first of the second, and that of 1854 the first of the third. The accompanying slip, on which I have set the years in one column and the suc-active anniversaries in the other, will show you that I am right.

I shall therefore correct the error in the official call next week.

I have a note from Mr. Thompson this morning in which he says he has made up his mind to relinquish his projected tour to the West, and return to Boston after the New York anniversary, in accordance with our advice. I am sure, we gave him good counsel, and therefore I am glad that he concludes to follow it.

Yours, always,

Oliver Johnson.
